

Value-Based Health Care Strategic Planning Tool

The Strategic Planning Tool will assess your health care organization (HCO) capacities (resources, processes, infrastructure, etc.) to deliver value-based care (VBC). Value-based care refers to health care that concurrently improves clinical quality/patient safety, advances community health, and lowers per capita cost.

The Strategic Planning Tool assesses 121 HCO capacities categorized under eight topic headings. The topic headings are interrelated and codependent; thus, capacities may fit under more than one topic heading.

For each capacity, please rate the degree to which the capacity is developed and deployed in your HCO. Alternately, some capacities may be better assessed by degree of adoption (alternate response in parentheses). The six response options are:

- Fully developed and deployed: The VBC capacity is fully developed and deployed throughout the HCO. (The HCO has fully adopted this capacity.)
- Developed, incompletely deployed: The VBC capacity is developed, but incompletely deployed throughout the HCO. (The HCO has nearly adopted this capacity.)
- In development: The VBC capacity is in development, but has not been deployed in the HCO. (The HCO has partially adopted this capacity.)
- In discussion: The VBC capacity has been discussed within the last two years, but no development activity is occurring at the HCO. (The HCO is considering adopting this capacity.)
- Not applicable: The VBC capacity has been discussed by the HCO in the last two years, but was determined to be not applicable. (The HCO does not plan to adopt this capacity.)
- Not considered: The VBC capacity has not been considered by the HCO in the last two years. (The HCO has no plans for this capacity.)

Not all capacities will fit perfectly with the response choices. Please select the closest, or most appropriate, response.
